Subject: GABRIEL - Meeting with CARBONDATE

1. I had a lengthy and fruitful discussion with CARBONDATE. As you know, he called his job with GABRIEL on 1 April 1953. [] gave him a little welcome speech in which he told him, amongst other things, that the [] will have to meet very closely with them in order to find out the needs and wishes of GABRIEL, which have not been in their notice to "our friends", who actually have not yet grasped the small points and nuances of GABRIEL. We are strictly forbidden the above mentioned to run for your information. He reminded this of several resolutions [] gave. However, CARBONDATE stated that the tone of [] address made him believe that [] would be able to point out to him that his primary allegiance lies with GABRIEL. I told him that this is not correct as my having told CARBONDATE that [] will certainly have access of his papers and that [] was very important. It is to be said that [] then [] CARBONDATE stated that he, as well as with or the other [] would bring their protest to [] and not []

2. He was extremely happy that CARBONDATE brought [] little speech to my attention since it shows that, so far, his loyalty will be with us.

3. In general, CARBONDATE was favorably impressed with the work of GABRIEL. There exist quite a number of security measures which I will write down in a progress report to be forwarded to the meeting next week. (I'll show you the draft before forwarding it). He pointed out CARBONDATE pointed out to me that he has noticed a couple of analytical troubles pertaining to matters of law in the Soviet Zone, with which he does not agree. (CARBONDATE is an attorney, and specialized in "criminal law"). I told CARBONDATE that, under the circumstances, in no way to voice his opinion within GABRIEL as far as their work is concerned - he is the chief of CI/CI and cannot afford to make in the production of GABRIEL. He understood this, and added that he had not intended to give his previous advice in this matter. However, I told him that if he noticed anything which, according to his knowledge of the law in the Soviet Zone, is drastically badly worded, he should tell it to me and I, in turn, will pass it on to somebody who is qualified to 1) judge his criticism and 2) can, if he feels inclined to do so, take it up with []

4. At present CARBONDATE is moving to his new abode.
